Newsgames Ian Bogost, Simon Ferrari, Bobby Schweizer, 2012-09-21 How videogames offer a new way to do journalism Journalism has embraced digital media in its struggle to survive But most online journalism just translates existing practices to the Web stories are written and edited as they are for print video and audio features are produced as they would be for television and radio The authors of Newsgames propose a new way of doing good journalism videogames Videogames are native to computers rather than a digitized form of prior media Games simulate how things work by constructing interactive models journalism as game involves more than just revisiting old forms of news production Wired magazine's game Cutthroat Capitalism for example explains the economics of Somali piracy by putting the player in command of a pirate ship offering choices for hostage negotiation strategies Videogames do not offer a panacea for the ills of contemporary news organizations But if the industry embraces them as a viable method of doing journalism not just an occasional treat for online readers newsgames can make a valuable contribution

Social Media News and Its Impact Fuyuan Shen, 2021-12-19 With creative designs this book contains important contributions to our understanding of social media news's effects on political engagement political knowledge willingness to engage in self censorship and political disaffection In recent years social media has emerged as a major source of news and other information The unique nature of social media and the variety of platforms available to individuals present challenges for those who want to study and understand its psychological impact. Fortunately, many innovative studies on this subject have appeared in publications in the last few years. This edited volume features a collection of recently published studies focusing on the effects of social media news as well as the framing of social issues on these platforms. The authors of these studies used surveys, experiments, and content analysis to explore their research questions. Each chapter provides valuable insights on the growing influence of social media news. The chapters in this book were originally published in the journal Mass Communication and Society.

Watching Channel One, Ann De Vaney, 1994-07-01. Channel One, an electronic curriculum that was developed primarily to sell products in the marketplace, is cablecast daily to approximately twelve thousand public high schools in the United States. About one quarter of our public secondary schools have been wired by Whittle Communications, a private company, for the delivery of this required news program. This translates to a captive audience for advertisements of around eight to nine million teens. The political, economic, social, and cognitive impact of Channel One will be vast. How did school board members and administrators arrive at the decision to include Channel One in their districts? What is the form and content of news and advertising on Channel One? Do students pay attention to the news? To the ads? Do students learn from Channel One? These questions, among others, are addressed in this book. By employing various forms of discourse analysis, critical theory, rhetorical analysis, structural and post-structural readings, descriptive case studies, and traditional effects studies, the authors provide a thorough investigation into Channel One.

Digital Innovations for Mass Communications, Paul Martin Lester, 2013-11-12. In every field of mass communications—advertising, entertainment studies, journalism, public relations, radio, television, film, tourism, and visual reporting—professionals understand the importance of storytelling. Regardless of whether the finished product is a commercial, an in-depth investigative piece, a public service campaign, an independent documentary, a travelogue, or a collection of photographs, effective storytelling requires a combination of creativity, empathy, and expertise. Through the innovative technologies and techniques described in this textbook, students will learn how to turn passive readers and viewers into engaged and regular users. The sixteen chapters each include a brief introduction, assignments, simple to follow step-by-step exercises, and sources for additional information in which users will learn to produce apps, informational graphics, quick response codes, quizzes, simulations, smartphone and tablet icons, social media campaigns, three-dimensional pictures, and video. Students will work with the following programs: Blogger, Dreamweaver, Excel, Facebook, GeoCommons, Google Maps, Illustrator, Imgur, iMovie, Infogram, iShowU, JavaScript, JustGive, Kaywa, Kickstarter, LinkedIn, Onvert, Photoshop, Pixel Resort, QuickTime, Reddit, Second Life, SurveyMonkey, TheAppBuilder, Twitter, Vizualize, Wikipedia, Word, WordPress, and YouTube. When digital innovations are added to traditional print and screen presentations a media user is not only allowed to interact with the information but can also physically engage with the story displayed Giving students the tools they need to transform their storytelling in this manner is the ultimate goal of this textbook
